

Editorial:

The lighter side of Rotary

The President has been elected and inducted, the Board has been chosen and introduced, and we all now await the handover, to see what the new Rotary year brings.

In order to prepare the new board (and the club) for the challenges that lie ahead I researched some old copies of the Rotarian and came away with some pointers.

ROTARY:
MAKING A DIFFERENCE

The speaker:

And on a more serious note, the average Rotarian:

Stripped Gears, the magazine's humor page, first appeared in January 1940 — although cartoons and jokes had been published since the early days. The Stripped Gears column was "retired" by the editors in May 1983, when the magazine changed its format, but readers disagreed with the decision. By popular demand, the column was reinstated in April 1984. The magazine started publishing humorous cartoons in its early years, and continues to run six or seven per issue. Most contributions to Stripped Gears come from Rotarians throughout the world.
